Re: SECTION 15 312 IAC 9-5-6

Dear NRC:

I fully support the amended language of the above referenced regulations regarding the harvesting of game turtles in Indiana and urge the National Resources Commission to adopt these new rules as drafted. My reasons are as follows:

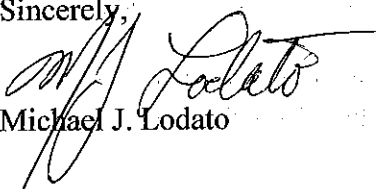

1. The reduction in the daily bag limit from 25 to 4 will put Indiana more or less in line with adjoining states, set a realistic and sustainable harvest level for these species;
2. The newly proposed seasonal July 1 through March 31 of the following year will protect these species from take during the time period they mate and deposit eggs, a process that is generally complete during June of any given year; and
3. The newly proposed size limits--a minimum 12-inch carapace length--will limit take to fully adult turtles and protect smaller, not yet sexually mature specimens from being removed from the population. This will have the effect of maximizing recruitment of juveniles and sub-adult sized animals into the adult population.

There is a large and growing market for turtles overseas, both for food and for the pet industry. Therefore, in addition to the above, I feel that the current rule allowing for a bag limit of 25 of each of these game turtles, if left as is, could make Indiana a magnet for out-of-state turtle harvesters. Under these circumstances, unscrupulous harvesters could take unsustainable numbers of game turtles and do so legally.

Again, for the stated reasons, I strongly urge the Natural Resources Commission to adopt the new and amended rules under 312 IAC 9-5-6 as written.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Lodato

Re: Rule Hearing - Deer Hunting with military grade rifles

Commissioners:

I ask the following information be considered by the Commission before it changes the rules on the weapons allowed for deer hunting in Indiana.

I am a retired prosecuting attorney for Decatur County. I have served Decatur County as the elected prosecutor for 24 years and five years as a chief deputy. I am very familiar with and have had the responsibility of enforcing Indiana DNR statutes and its rules and regulations

I was trained and served as an infantry sergeant in the US Army. During training and duty, I qualified as an Army expert marksman several times and could consistently hit targets accurately with an open-sight rifle at a range of 450 yards in wooded areas. During night training, I fired Army rifles with tracer rounds where I observed my bullets ricochet in many directions beyond my target.

The current rules that limit deer hunting to short range targets with a short range ricochet zone are the only way to allow deer hunting in Indiana. Contrary to popular belief, Indiana is no longer a rural state. Rural homes and "mini" farms, even in remote counties, exists within a quarter of a mile of any place a person stands in Indiana.

The effective target kill range of high powered, high velocity military grade rifles is at least a quarter of a mile, particularly with scope-sights. The killing and ricochet range of these rifles, even with "soft" bullets, is at least between three quarters of a mile to a mile or more.

The changing of deer hunting rules from a short range shooting zone to a long range zone is reckless and creates a new, unnecessary and uncontrolled public danger that includes the following.

1. This vast enlargement of the deer target zone and ricochet zone by high velocity bullets creates a new, dangerous and unnecessary risk to DNR Conservation officers required to work and enforce Indiana statutes and regulations in these hunting zones. Under the rule change, a deer hunter is a tree stand became the equivalent to a military sniper.
2. The enlargement of the killing and ricochet zone will result in high velocity bullets trespassing across roads and upon the land of others creating a new deadly danger to motorists on road, hikers, fishermen and those who do not permit deer hunting on their land. This danger includes both personal injury and damage to the property of others.
3. This enlarged shooting zone also creates a new danger among deer hunters. With a short range shooting zone, deer hunters usually know when and where other deer hunters are in the same area. Under the proposed change, hunters are shooting into a large area beyond their eye-sight, their control and their knowledge. This change creates the real possibility that two hunters might engage the same target shooting directly across at each other or shooting into a deadly ricochet zone across from each other.

These dangers are obvious and exist even when the hunter is a skilled, sober marksman. But, even a sober, skilled hunter is less accurate at a longer range. Increasing the shooting range for deer, by operation of fact, will increase the number of stray bullets that are more deadly because of their high velocity. This makes the reckless deer hunter even more dangerous and deadly after a few beers as part of the hunting experience.

My family owns forty acres with a mixed terrain of woods, meadows and elevations along the Decatur-Franklin County line. It has two ponds and a creek which makes it a popular habitat for deer. I do not deer hunt but I allow one or two hunters on this land each season. I am comfortable that short range deer hunting is relatively safe on this land, even when I am using a far corner of the property. Lake Santee is a residential development with several hundred homes about a half mile beyond this land. It becomes part of the bullet kill and ricochet zone from this property if the rule is changed.

Indiana deer hunters tend to be very aggressive. Like many land owners, I have a continuing problem with trespassing hunters trying to take deer on my land. Long range deer hunting creates a new and unnecessary danger that will result in prohibiting deer hunting on this forty acres.

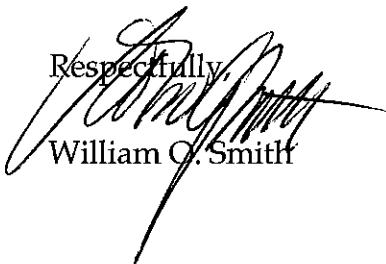

The proposed change of the rules will increase the problem of deer hunters on other property shooting illegally at deer on my land. This problem exists now under existing statutes and rules. Under the proposed change, this problem becomes much more dangerous when hunters shoot high velocity bullets into my land.

The existing DNR rules work very well in Indiana. The existing DNR rule already recognize, acknowledge and admit that long range deer hunting is dangerous and not appropriate in Indiana.

There is no need or reason to create a new risk and significantly increase the danger to the general public only for the purpose of satisfying the emotional needs of some hunters.

The Commission's duty is to create rational rules that protect the public. It should not become the agent for the emotional needs of a limited, self-interest group.

Respectfully,

William C. Smith

My name is Todd Paterson. ALLEN COUNTY

I am a lifelong resident of the state of Indiana, have been hunting since I was a child and hold an Indiana Comprehensive Lifetime Hunting License. I hunt with a bow, crossbow, shotgun, muzzleloader and rifle. I have hunted in western states and Canada for deer, elk, bear and caribou. While large caliber high power rifles do have their place, flat and populated Indiana is not one of them. I am strongly opposed to the expansion of the current cartridges legal for deer hunting in Indiana.

The DNR states that their reasons for removing all restrictions on high power rifle cartridges are as follows.

- 1- Because smokeless powder muzzleloaders already shoot 500 yards.
- 2- Because neighboring states allow large caliber rifle cartridges.
- 3- Because deer populations will not be affected.

In response to these statements.

- 1- While I personally do use a smokeless powder muzzleloader and it is possible to kill a deer at 500 yards, anything beyond 250 yards is not in my opinion an ethical high percentage clean kill shot. Also muzzleloaders are limited to one shot, while AR platform semiautomatic rifles are capable of rapid fire and large capacity magazines resulting in the likelihood of someone not noticing what is behind their intended target animal, causing serious personal injury to innocent bystanders. Also the number of hunters using smokeless powder muzzleloaders is relatively low compared to how many would be hunting with large caliber high power rifles if legalized. If a muzzleloader is capable of shooting 500 yards, then how far is a 30.06, 7mm or 300 win. Mag. Capable of traveling?
- 2- Since Michigan, Pennsylvania and Kentucky have vast wooded forests and rolling terrain they can safely use large high power rifle cartridges. Even Michigan recognizes that it would be unsafe in the lower portion of their state to use high power rifles. The state of Indiana is for the most part flat with small wooded tracts making the use of larger high power rifle cartridges very unsafe.
- 3- The DNR claims that deer population would not be negatively impacted, yet I have seen no mention of shortening the seasons to limit harvest, which in itself has proven to be an unpopular idea due to limiting hunter's time afield. If both larger caliber cartridges and AR platform weapons are legal for deer hunting, the state of Indiana will see a substantial decline of deer population. Something that I as a hunter would not want to see.

In closing, if this law is passed, even though I have been a lifelong hunter I would probably stop going to the deer woods in Indiana during firearms season for my own safety and that of my families. Also there would no longer need to be a DNR fundraiser in Fort Wayne which I have attended, that has raised approximately $400,000 in the last three years for habitat improvement because there will be no deer left to need it. Instead hunters such as myself will be forced to spend their money to go out of state to have an enjoyable hunting experience. I implore the people responsible for making the ruling on this law, please do not cater to the insurance lobbies that want to decimate the states deer herd and let common sense rule for the safety of the people of Indiana.

Deer Population and Coyote and other wildlife concerns about conversation

Western central Whitley County. Between Larwill and Pierceton, Indiana

I have been a resident of this area for all my life. I have observed the wildlife in this area. 50 years.

I have never seen so few deer in this area. I would estimate that there may be about 1 deer per square 5 miles in this area if that. I believe that there are several factors that are causing this dramatic loss of deer in this area. I did not take a deer last season, mainly because I saw so few deer. All winter with the snow cover, I saw hardly any deer tracks in areas that normally would have deer traffic.

1. Is the over hunting and precision of the hunters
2. The high coyote population - has killed tons of deer
3. And disease caused by the 2012 drought.

* In this area there should be a limit of only 1 deer for all of the deer hunting seasons- at least for a couple of years. All of my friends who hunt agree to this.

Year Round Season

The coyote population must be controlled- by any means- trapping, snaring, poisoning etc.

HIGH POWERED RIFLES FOR HUNTING- There is absolutely no need for high powered rifles for hunting deer. To Dangerous- many of my friends said they would quit hunting if they were allowed, because they would feel unsafe.

The Grey Herron Should be removed from endangered species List and should be considered a pest. The nasty birds cause the grub larva in many of the fish I catch. And more important they have almost eliminated the bullfrog and frog population in my opinion.

- I oppose the high powered rifle proposal for most of the reasons already mentioned at the meeting.

- I am for the 25 limit on bluegill. I believe it will not affect the majority of anglers.

In all cases I would consider the non-average outdoors person that messes things up for the whole group. These rules are to control those who do not as a whole make good decisions.

- I am also in favor of the 16 inch walleye limit

WOULD LIKE TO REMOVE THE EARN A BUCK FROM THE URBAN ZONE! AND
STAY WITH THE (4) LIMIT

As a young man, I was against Government intervention.
I thought that I was a good driver and was safe at a speed higher than than the posted speed. A few close calls and a few accidents and I changed my mind.
I also thought that a 3:00 am closing time for bars was wrong. We are adults and can think for ourselves. After owning a bar, I changed my mind on the closing time as well.
I have been building rifles since 1970 when I was a freshman in shop class at Avilla. I currently build a version of the 35 caliber deer rifle.
The 2007 law on handgun/rifles is almost divine inspiration. It restricts powder charges for safety and yet allows enough power for the ethical taking of deer at 300 yards. Perfect!
The idea of unrestricted "High Power Rifles" is scary. There are thousands of hunters on opening morning. The idea that they can get a .300 Remington Ultra Mag from Walmart(and some do) the night before season, and take it to the woods at 5:00 am is frightening.
Let's go back to where we started this.
They would decide what "High Power Rifle " was ethical.
Just like we shouldn't let a teenage decide what is an appropriate sped when they are late coming back from a date on Friday night, I don't think we should let hunters decide how much power they should wield on opening morning.
The law that you are looking at is a Western Elk hunting law, for states like Wyoming, Montana & Colorado. These are sparsely populated states. Indiana is not ..
The case capacity restriction combined with the .358 caliber minimums work together to produce a safe and effective choice. The .358 caliber, big and heavy so as to keep the muzzle velocity low. 2600 feet per second to 2700 feet per second depending on the projectile, these are low to moderate speeds.
For a rifle to shoot at long range, it must have both high muzzle velocity and a high Ballistic Coefficient form. Ballistic Coefficient or BC is a long formula that refers to a projectile ability to perform at long ranges. To get a better BC, generally the weight must go up. When it does, the case capacity restriction kicks in and reduces the muzzle velocity. Perfect !
Places in Indiana to safely shoot 1000 yards are few.
I have built rifles that are predictable at ranges much farther than that.
With one of these rifles, I have won the high masters class at 1000 yards. I had 10 rounds in the 6" marker.
On Western hunts, some of my rifles have made cold bore hits at 1187 yards and two at 1323 yards. Both rifles were shooting commercial available rounds, 7 mm STW and a 7 mm Remington Ultra Mag.
Some other commercially available cartridges with the same ability are 7 mm Remington Mag, .300 Winchester Mag, .300 Remington Mag, .338 Lapua, .338 Edge, .375 Remington Ultra Mag.. Just to name a few . There are many others ..
You can find multiple short videos of long range hunting on U Tube.
I have customers already looking at the choices that will be available besides the commercially available ones. Some of them are .416 Barrett, .408 Cheytac, 50 caliber BMG and .375 Allen
All of these have effective ranges of over 1 mile. Some of these have confirmed kills over 2500 yards. The .375 Allen is super sonic at ranges past 3000 yards, that is near two miles.
I have already started two of the .375 Allen rifles for customers for next year !
Some restrictions are warranted.
I think the 2007 handgun/rifle law is the best of both worlds. Power & Safety
The 2012 version of the law is way more than is necessary.
There are individuals that will always think bigger is better.. Please help our hunting community make the right choice.

Variables to consider for long Range Shooting

1) False confidence vs. skill

Not everyone can shoot this far in ~~an~~ accurately.
In my years I have seen a lot of shooting @ ranges, not the best shots, perhaps $< 5\%$ can hit target @ 200 yards, most don't shoot more 100 yards @ range

2) Deer doesn't fall on the spot, or within a few feet. Oh, I must have missed!!
They fall down on TV or nose in within a few feet!!

3) Ability or desire, terrain issue to follow up
It didn't fall, man that's long way over there.

4) Gee, can't find the spot she was standing it's somewhere around here, oh well it's getting dark, gotta go home.

5) The longer ^{the} range, the more ~~accurate~~ accurate you have judge range, (look @ ballistic tables for

VARIABLES TO CONSIDER IN LONG-RANGE HUNTING GO FAR BEYOND HITTING YOUR TARGET

I'm generally a very selective hunter, so I'm sparing when it comes to squeezing the trigger. I won't shoot unless it's an animal I really want. Thus, I want near certainty the shot is going to kill him, because I know if I miss, I likely won't get another chance.

To me, it comes down to a simple philosophy – I don't shoot unless I'm 90% confident I'm 1) going to hit him lethally, and 2) be able to fully recover him. It has nothing specifically to do with shot distance. Instead, it's a combination of variables including shot distance, difficulty in reaching the animal, likelihood of finding where he was when he was shot when considering time and vegetative cover, weather (rain/snow), impending darkness, and more. If all those variables don't add up to a very high confidence, I'll wait for a better option, whether it's the next day, or simply moving closer.

A New Roar

Ten years ago, the words "long-range hunting" were rarely spoken. It was novelty at best for most hunters. Today, you can't even turn around without hearing of a new person who just invested in a long-range hunting setup. It's a roar in the hunting community that can't and won't be drowned out. Like it or not, it's here to stay.

I'll be honest; I'm not personally a fan of it (with exceptions). Similar to the old bowhunting mantra, I still subscribe to the philosophy of doing all I can to see how close I can get before I shoot, rather than to see how far away I can be and still hit it.

However, this article isn't about whether or not you like it or whether or not I like it. In part, it's an acknowledgement that it's here to stay, but in bigger part it's to talk about the responsibility must come with it.

In a previous article, I used the quote, "With great freedom comes great responsibility." Now I'd like to dip back into that line of thinking and say, "With even greater freedom comes even greater responsibility." In other words, if you're going to take exceptionally long shots at the game we all value and respect, you have a serious obligation to be willing, ready, and able to finish the job.

The Real Issues at Hand

There are some variables with long-range hunting that can be problematic in nature and should be addressed:

False confidence vs. true skill. Those who are truly good at it and post those big numbers often give a false confidence to a large mass of people who then wrongly assume that "they can do it too". In truth, many of those people won't have the time or drive to ever attain that skill. Don't kid yourself; it takes years of practice and study to become proficient. Factors such as understanding of wind, consistency in loads, a detailed knowledge of ballistics in varying conditions and environments, quality of gear, and natural aptitude for shooting all get amplified here.

This isn't Hollywood. It's an easy mental trap to fall into that because you hit an animal, it always just dies. Reality doesn't work that way. As shot distances increase, bullet energy on impact decreases. Decreased bullet energy amplifies a lot of problems on imperfect shots, meaning those shots need to be even more perfect.

Extreme topography, physical capabilities, and fortitude to follow up. Another major issue is assuming that all topography is equal. There is a big difference in taking an 800-yard shot across a grassy flat vs. across a canyon with 1500 feet of elevation loss/gain. What if it "appears" as though you missed? Are you still 100% willing, every single time, to drop down those 1500 feet and then climb back up the other side to find out? And then do it all over again coming back? Of all the variables, this one honestly concerns me the most. In truth, I'd bet that too many people just walk away.

Woodsmen skill of finding the spot and tracking. Was the animal in an easily findable location near a rock or snag that you can identify? Or was it in a sea of green brush or a sagebrush mountainside that would be almost impossible to locate the shovel-full of dirt he was standing on? How good a tracker are you? Do you have a buddy who can keep a spotting scope on that exact location, or is it likely going to be a solo venture with wild swing and a miss? There's a major difference between shooting at something 200 yards away with a quick sprint to a location fresh in your mind vs. trying to find a spot from memory an hour ago and that took an indirect route to get there.

No room for error. All things being equal, a hunter who makes a bad shot at 100 yards has a reasonable chance of salvaging the situation. That chance plummets at 1000.

It's not a game; it's a tool for rare circumstances. This variable is one that I feel has no place in our hunting heritage, period. If you can get to a perfect shooting location 200 yards from that animal, but instead choose to shoot from 900 so that you have a "number" to boast about, then in my opinion, you've lost your way. Our animals and our hunting heritage deserve better than that. Much better.

Be Truthful to Yourself

All these extremes listed above have exponential curves leading toward failure, the totality of which can be a disaster. Thus, it really gets back to the same question: Are you 90% confident you're going to 1) hit the animal; 2) hit it lethally; 3) have the fortitude to follow through and go to that location even if you're confident you missed; 4) be able to find that exact spot; and 5) track him down and finish the job?

If so, by all means, fire away. However, if the truth is that all those variables are no longer 90%, but more like 50% or a Hail Mary, consider leaving the target practice at the range and move closer, or wait for the variables to increase in your favor.

To all concerned,

I wish to express a written opinion on the proposed Administrative Rule Changes before us at this meeting/hearing.

Regarding SECTION 5. 312 IAC 9-3-3, Equipment for deer hunting. Specifically, I address the proposed changes to Sec. 3 (d).

I find the proposed changes unacceptable. The general application and use of high powered, center-fire rifles, as this change proposes, in the relative flat topography of much of Indiana raises serious safety issues and safety concerns for residents in and around the hunting field. All my hunting fiends concur with my position.

I therefore request you reconsider these proposed changes and remove them from consideration.

Natural Resources Commission,

Following is my statement of concerns about the use of high powered rifles during firearm hunting season.

I am not opposed to ownership of legitimate firearms, my family members are gun owners themselves. My concern is the appropriateness and public safe guards in place to protect innocent people who may be affected by the actions of some gun owners.

We have lived in our neighborhood for 40 years. Eight years ago, the person who owns the vacant property across the street allowed people to "target shoot" on this property. At times, these "shootings" have lasted from less than an hour to as much as over a 5 hour period one day. Since he started this, others in this older established "rural" neighborhood area took up "target shooting" as well. I have heard shots from rifles, shotguns, hand guns, automatic weapons and as of last summer, what appears to be exploding target devices of some kind that rattled our windows.

When the shootings started, I have three separate times called the sheriff's department to look into the shootings. I have asked the person who owns the property where the first shootings took place, to not allow the shooting as I am ill and it upsets me. His response was to threaten me with legal proceedings if I reported it to the sheriff again. Another close neighbor knows I have a severe heart condition and it terrifies me for this to happen, but he and others keep doing it. I even called the Southern District DNR office in Seymour 8 years ago to ask about guidelines for target shooting in residential neighborhoods. I was told at the time there were guidelines that should have been enforced, but because of the state's gun laws just past, where do those guidelines stand?

These shootings have happened while utility workers have been in the area, when school buses have been in the area, when people have been working in their yards and mowing their grass, when people are walking their dogs, even when Halloween was postponed from Friday to Saturday night in 2014, someone was target shooting with an automatic weapon of some sort that repeated shots from 6:15 to about 7 pm. The worst happening was just a week before the Sandy Hook Massacre, someone at ten after midnight decided to shoot at what we believe to be deer bedded down near our house. When it happened, we saw a neighbor's truck speeding by, and when my husband went out to investigate, no one else seemed to be around that could have done it. I have heard shots fired well after dark on several occasions, these are suppose to be law abiding citizens?

I also must mention the area we live in is approximately a half mile from where interstate 69 will be connecting to state road 37, I do not know the exact distance, but if a direct line were drawn from our property to the interstate, that would be my guess. It would be interesting to see just how close and where these properties relate to the highways. I have heard shootings toward Bolen Lane area as well, and that was just a couple of weeks ago in the morning hours around 10 am.

I further mention 8 years ago, a Monrovia man died in his bed because a neighbor was checking a hand gun he had been working on, that neighbor with the gun was supposed to have been one thousand feet from the dead man's home. In another instance, a man that lives on 144 between state road 37 and Mooresville, has a bullet lodged in his back because he stepped out of his front door with his child when a neighbor who had been shooting down the way from his house shot him. I also want to mention a family who lives in the northern part of the state, and just down the road from a target range, their home was hit by high powered bullets. I also am including an article published in our local paper dated March 3, 2015 about road rage that involved both men carrying guns in the city of Bloomington! You expect the bad guys to do this, but when the good guys demonstrate bad behavior what do we do?

My health is such that I hopefully will not have to put up with this endangerment much longer, but what about all the innocent people who do not want to participate in gun usage as it is being allowed to stand now. Are we to give up our rights to live safely and securely in our own homes? The people petitioning for use of high powered rifles can only guarantee their actions, they can not speak for anyone else who will have the same rights. The DNR can not monitor or absolutely guarantee peoples safety by allowing high powered rifles to be used. Safety for all has to be a considering factor in this decision. I hope you can put to use the information I have sent to you to make a wise and just decision for all.

Sincerely,

Brenda Dudley

Road rage report on snowy street investigated

By Abby Tonsing

812-331-4245 | atonsing@herald.com

Bloomington police investigated a report that men in trucks threatened each other with handguns on a snow-covered street.

Officers were called to a report of intimidation in the 300 block of North Roosevelt Street just before 5 p.m. Sunday.

The snow-covered street didn't have a wide enough opening to accommodate one truck passing the other, Bloomington Police Department Capt. Joe Qualters explained. One truck driver who was working to plow the snow grew impatient with a second truck driver, who was parked and waiting for his son.

The man who had been plowing snow told police that as he approached to speak with the other truck driver, he saw the man holding a handgun above the steering wheel.

The man who was parked and waiting for his son told police that he did have a handgun in his lap, but did not display the gun. This man's son reported that when he and the plow driver exchanged words, the plow driver brandished a semi-automatic handgun and made threats.

Neither truck driver wanted to pursue charges, and no arrests were made.

Both men had proper licenses to carry their handguns, Qualters said.

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter to oppose the proposed law that allows the use of high-powered rifles to hunt deer in Indiana.

High-powered rifles can fire a bullet over a long distance. Therefore, hunters will take long range shots which will reduce the accuracy of their shot. Inaccurate long range shots will also wound instead of kill a deer. In the long run this will lead to harming the deer population.

Some high-powered rifles are capable of firing a bullet for over a mile. This then becomes a safety concern when hunters fire bullets across the flat terrain here in northern Indiana.

The current laws allow Indiana deer hunters to use a wide variety of hunting equipment. Adding additional equipment, such as high-powered rifles, will cause a safety concern as well as potentially harming the deer population in the long run.

Please reconsider this proposal.

Mike Cox

RE: Addendum to Petition Submission

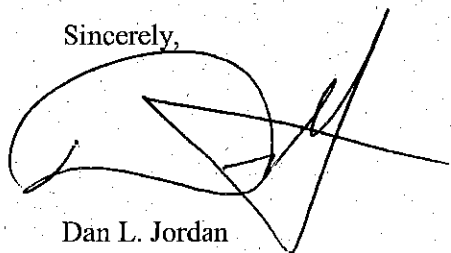

Dear Commission Members:

Please accept the attached page of original petition signatures (eight (8) signatures contained therein) as an addendum to the submission of one thousand fifty-eight (1058) signatures that I previously submitted (by hand delivery) to the Commission on March 24, 2015.

It is my intent that the attached eight (8) signatures be incorporated by reference (via this letter) to the aforementioned previously submitted one thousand fifty-eight (1058) signatures.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'Dan L. Jordan', with a large, sweeping loop and a long, straight horizontal line extending to the right.

Dear Natural Resources Commission, Division of Hearings,

I am writing to ask you to NOT approve the use of high powered rifles for future deer hunts. My family and I hunt in Fountain County. Our property is surrounded on all four sides by landowners who hunt (two sides are actually leased for hunting). There are multiple hunters on these tracts. During the hunting season there are numerous shots being fired and the only consolation we have is that these are not high powered rifles. Opening it up to high powered rifles will be a real safety issue!

There's no need to change from the current regulations. Each year we come across wounded deer that are the result of poor shots or poor decisions of hunters who feel the need to take a "long" shot. The proposed change will not only make the woods less safe it will also encourage some hunters to take shots at distances that are not realistic and are irresponsible.

If you would like more information please feel free to call me @ 765-586-1058 or write to the following address.

Thanks for you assistance!

Dear Sirs:

I have spoken to several hunters in Indiana, one is a close friend and a true sportsman. He is appalled with the idea of using 300 Mag rifles to kill deer. He actually compared the use of this rifle "to using an elephant gun to shoot a rabbit." It seems like those in favor of using a 300 Mag rifle to hunt deer may be pretending they are American snipers or serving in the military. The hunters that I spoke to feel this practice is wrong for several reasons.

Indiana has a different landscape from where Ted Nugent lives. In flatter populated areas near farms and houses it would be very dangerous. Wounding a deer at longer distances increases the chances of not finding the animal after it is shot. Then it suffers a wasted lingering death. In the words of Jay Anglin, "It is a recipe for disaster."

This "shoot em up" attitude destroys the sanctity of the wilderness. How long will it take for the total wildlife area to recover from a war zone. Again, deer are the victims of average Joe follies. My friends are on the side of Jay Anglin who appears to have an intelligent approach to this issue.

Please do not let these rifles be used.

Sincerely.

Herma Compton

To Whom It May Concern:

Count my opinion on the proposed usage of rifle calibers over .243 for deer hunting in Indiana as AGAINST. I have deer hunted on Hoosier National Forest ground since 1972. On opening day of gun season it's not uncommon for me to hear anywhere from twenty to fifty shots from other hunters in the area. I don't know how many of these shots could miss the deer and possibly hit me or some other unintended target if a rifle was being used. I do know if the weapons were restricted to shotguns with slugs, none of them would pose a threat.

Indiana hunters have been able to kill record numbers of deer in the past decade using the current weapons allowed. Why do we need increased firepower? I've heard the argument used that it will allow more women to hunt, insinuating that rifles have less kickback than shotguns with slugs. I started my son hunting when he was thirteen years old. He was a little over five feet tall and weighed about one hundred pounds. I armed him with a .410 caliber shotgun with slug, and he killed his first buck with it.

In summary, I think we currently have an adequate assortment of weapons allowed for a majority of Indiana deer hunters.

Dear Natural Resources Commission:

I consider it absolutely insane to think of using high powered rifles to hunt deer in so densely populated a state as Indiana. I have hunted since 1946 and have hunted deer in Indiana since 1963 and have had many wonderful days afield without the use of high powered rifles.

There is just no need of adding to the present risks of hunting the risk of using long range firearms. Please do not permit it.

Very truly yours

Subject: concern

1. first thing I'm concern about is the DNR property in Posey co during gun season is BUCKS ONLY, a spike does not have a chance, the bucks are down do to this not to happy. Open up to does so people can have meat to eat.

2. Not in favor at all on the HIGH POWER RIFLE do to Indiana is a flat state can travel long way.

3. Turkey season in southern part of the state comes in about 3 weeks to late, need to have north and south zone like duck season. Ever since the season has come in I have been successful and proud of that.

To the NRC Division of Hearings,

I am a landowner and a hunter in Spencer Co. in the southwestern part of the state. I understand that Indiana DNR wants to legalize the use of high powered rifles for deer hunting. Why? For what purpose? What are the benefits?

I am against this proposal. It does not serve the interests of our state, or the people that live in rural areas.

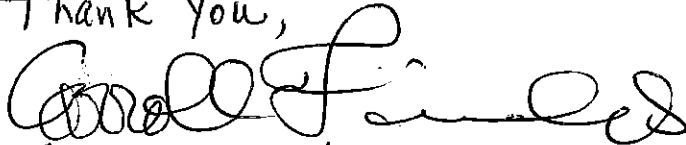

The current weapons available for deer hunting are capable of taking deer at reasonable ranges, with a greater margin of safety than high powered rifles.

This system has worked well for many years and does not need to be changed. Please send me any information to explain why this change is even being considered.

The use of high powered rifles will encourage hunters to take longer range shots. This will wound more deer, and also put more people and property in danger from missed shots.

Legalizing the use of high powered rifles is not a solution to a problem, but rather inventing a problem that will later need a solution.

Thank You,

2. Rifles for deer should be allowed.

If too much emphasis put on deer hunting and not enough on small game. Deer hunting has caused more bad relations between land-owners and hunters than any other form of hunting. Here in Gibson Co. hunters were able to take 7-8 deer. He or needs this many deer to eat.

3. Gun season should not open until Nov. 8 or any farther. The pelts are simply not prime earlier and are not of much value. It should be closed by Jan 30 because pelts are deteriorating and become of no value as it gets later than Jan 30.

4. Proposal to make a limit of 25 including bluegill etc is wrong. You can ~~not~~ overfish bass but not bluegill. Too many stunted sunfish now.

Sirs:

As members of a growing recreational beagle hound club here in Indiana, we respectfully disagree with your theory to have extended the rabbit hunting season to the end of February. We have a mixed age group of members from junior members (12 years of age), to senior members (80 years of age), and are approximately 50 members strong. We host several sanctioned beagle dog trials in the various registries and formats, as well as the big A.R.H.A World Hunt in the spring of the year. This hunt draws 600 to 700 entries from all over the United States including Canada. Most of our knowledge is derived from in the field observance, or other hands on experiences. We try hard as members to cultivate our sport by scattering salt and mineral blocks, food plots, and also using restraints when hunting and conditioning our dogs throughout the year to help conserve the rabbit population.

We know and agree that the rabbits are (bunching up), or running in pairs around the latter part of the year. Any buck rabbits killed around this time have breeding characteristics such as swollen testicles etc. Doe rabbits killed the latter two or three weeks of the season are carrying young thumb size or so fetuses. As these things are recognized by all of us in the field, and the season continues to be extended we have to ask ourselves; how does this practice fit into conserving the sport? Is it the lull time between hunting and fishing? Is it to draw out-of-stators for more license revenue? We can't be thinking of the rabbit population when we set these game laws into effect. We've all heard the old adage of four to five litters per year, and four to five per litter. It also takes rabbits to make rabbits. If we keep hammering the breeding stock simple math can show where this is going to take our sport. As concerned Stewarts of our sport we respectfully ask that the season close at the end of January, as it did for so many years in the past.

While observing this, we feel like there are some discrepancies and inconsistencies in this theory that have not been brought to light yet. One big question we have, as conservationist at heart is why the state doesn't practice the same theories on private and public land that it does on state property. Bluegrass is only open to rabbit hunting three days a week. If we are so concerned about conserving the rabbit population on state property why not take the same action on public-private land? Private and public rabbit populations are getting hammered two and a half times as much as populations on state property. There is definitely more to this equation than conserving the rabbits. Thanks for reading and considering our views on this matter. We're sure you have encountered the same views on this in the past. It's a pretty common discussion in our circle.

Thank You,

Dear Sirs:

My concern is the use of high-powered rifles to hunt deer. Anyone who has viewed "American Sniper" can see the accuracy of these weapons!

I can see deer now about a half mile away. I like to shoot, and I dislike deer on the road, and in my garden.

I do not hear women and youth complaining about the kick of the shotguns. If they do, this sport is not for them! Bad weather this year gave the deer an advantage. Again, real hunters did not whine about it!

We have no need to shoot at these distances into the woods! I walk my 30 acre woods with my grandchildren regularly, and it is sufficient to do so with bright colored clothing - for now. Vote NO!

Hey Guys:

I would like very much see the Turkey season come in (like surrounding states) 2 weeks earlier. The Toms seems not to interested in the hens this late; I thought about sprinkling Viagra on the ground (just kidding).

Also would like to a high powered rifle season for deer hunting & other nuisance wild animals & etc.

Also a legal season for bob cat; they are reducing the deer population here in southern Indiana; in Spencer County & Warrick County.

Dear Sirs

Don't give the general public the right to use high powered rifles on private lands of southern Indiana as a landowner it will be dangerous to be out during deer season!

I let people hunt on my land now, my son-in-law reprimanded a member for shooting in his director while in his stand!

These small farms of southern Indiana are not large enough for high power rifles!

In parks or striped pits it might work. but don't put that burden on us.

The State and county has doubled our property taxes on us in the last several years now you want to shoot us.

Re: Fish and Wildlife: Biennial Rule Amendment Package (LSA #14-453)

Dear Sir/Madam,

Thank you very much for the opportunity to comment on the proposed changes contained in the Fish and Wildlife: Biennial Rule Amendment Package (LSA #14-453). I would like to fully support the following revision in 312 IAC 9-3-3 Equipment for deer hunting:

- (4) A rifle must fire a cartridge that meets the following specifications:
(A) Fire a bullet of two hundred fortythree thousandths (.243) of an inch diameter or larger.
(B) Have a minimum case length of one and sixteen-hundredths (1.16) inches.

The Indianapolis Star covered the topic in a December 17, 2014 article, in which a variety of arguments, both pro and con, were advanced on the issue. While both sides make, to some degree, valid points, on balance the modifications made a lot of sense.

1. In my opinion (based on lifelong hunting experience), "high-powered" rifles are, not, inherently, more dangerous than what is currently allowed. It is true that theoretically, bullets shot from "high-powered" rifles can travel farther than those currently permitted. However, the key here is hunter safety and hunting ethics. For instance, hunters should not take a shot if there is no adequate backstop. They should only shoot when the animal is within the appropriate range for the shot. And, they should not shoot if there are obstacles in the path of the bullet that may deflect the projectile. A safely taken, appropriate shot poses little danger, regardless of the caliber used.
2. Another argument is that "high-powered" rifles are unsafe because rural areas are so populated. Just like any other state, Indiana has a range of population densities. In some areas, the population density is higher, and others, lower. However, deer need to be hunted uniformly across Indiana in order to maintain deer populations at acceptable levels in all areas. Thus, in some areas, hunters are forced to shoot where human population density is quite high. However, this can be accomplished without danger to humans by using safe shooting practices as detailed above.
3. Some people claim that high-powered rifles pose a danger urban areas. To my knowledge, this claim is not valid for "urban deer hunting zones," in which archery is the only legal method of hunting.
4. Last, the gun calibers that would be made legal by the proposed rule changes are widely used in many other states, including Pennsylvania, as well as internationally (such as Germany.) In Pennsylvania, where I hunted for many years, high-powered rifles are a common and widely accepted method of hunting, without any above-average level of danger. In Germany, a country which is very conscious about hunting safety, these calibers have been used without problems for more than 100 years.

I think the proposed revisions make a lot of sense and should be implemented. Thank you for your efforts to continually evolve hunting regulations in Indiana.

DNR

First off, I want to thank you for this hearing you have set (and remembering some of us concerned, I do not have a computer (and therefore, I can submit a letter to you. Thank you.

Your hearing (dates and articles was in our local paper - The Huntington County TAB, and my thoughts are: I'm not a hunter and I really don't like shooting of animals, but I know it is done to keep the population in control, or else there would be lots of poaching.

I do not approve of a high-powered rifle for deer hunting, there is enough of choice to use now (and with high-power - where the "Sport" gone.

The fish limit - I've known it to be 25 bag limit, for all my years of fishing. That's enough for one person in a day. Let's keep it fun (and sporting. I'm sure there are some that abuse our laws anyway, but if it's set at 25, stop there, if you increase it, then they increase it also, and it keeps on going.

Ruffed Grouse suspension: Yes I think it should be suspended. My, theres not that many land land maybe they can make a come back someday, same for quail, turkeys, pheasants, once in a while on a country road I have seen a pheasant or turkeys, how exciting to see them in the wild.

Rabbits: We and them go around every summer, they eat my flowers! But its O.K. I just think, its more food for Racoons, Fox, Coyotes. But where I live here in Huntington, Jr. Rabbits can be a problem, flowers cost money, but they don't know that! But is aggravating.

Coyotes: I know they can be a problem, and where I live I can hear them sometimes at night. I can think back 20 years ago, I never heard one! But these wild animals don't know they are a nuisance, its nearly survival to them, as we humans are.

God created everything for us, as caretakers of his creations while we are here on earth, to do the best we can and not to abuse our laws, but it happens and its sad, but thanks to you, the DNR for enforcing and keeping everything in balance for all of us.

I'm sure you will use your best judgements to do the right decisions, you all have a huge task and thank you for what you do.

I do enjoy seeing our critters, fishing and the outdoors, and helping to do my part as God wished and I know you will

As an avid deer hunter for the past 40 years, I have not had to ever use a High Power Rifle to fill my deer tags.

In my opinion, our State is too small, too populated, & too flat for the use of High Power Rifles for the hunting of deer.

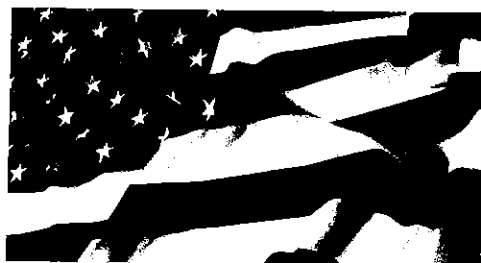

There are many reasons I could bring up but the main reason is Safety. We do not need to be firing a gun that could send lead for thousands of feet & further only to take a deer. High Powered Rifles are capable of shooting long distances with very heavy impact & penetration in ~~where~~ what-ever it hits.

Dear NRC members

I am submitting this petition on behalf of all the individuals who have signed this petition to ask the board members not to pass proposed amendment 312 IAC 9-3-3 Equipment for deer hunting the use of high power rifles of (.243) inch diameter or larger; for Indiana deer season.

The undersign individuals are hunters and non-hunters who see no reason in having a high power rifle used in Indiana. The individuals in this petition also see more danger in using this type of weapon and see no purpose in having such a weapon added when current deer hunting calibers are more than adequate.

We the under signed do not want a rifle season that will allow the two hundred forty three thousandths (.243) of an inch diameter or larger added to Indiana deer season.

We feel that the calibers that Indiana allows now does and will control the deer herd in the future. Adding a rifle season with (.243) of an inch diameter or larger will be dangerous.

Re: Proposed use of high powered rifles for hunting,

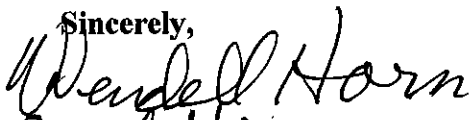

Sirs:

We are very much opposed to the use of high powered rifles for hunting in the state of Indiana for the following reason.

The state of Indiana is too populated, too flat and too open. In most areas of the state there are no natural objects to stop the bullet if it misses the intended target. If the intended target is missed, there is a good possibility that a building, propane tank, domesticated animals, farm machinery, autos, trucks and human beings will be shot. These guns can shoot a bullet a long distance. The possibility of finding the shooter would be very difficult. It would be a tragedy if a person or an animal was injured or killed.

We do not know of anyone that is favor of the use of high powered rifles for hunting. Please use some common sense and not allow this to be legal.

Sincerely,

To Whom it should concern

I've had a relationship with fire arms for fifty five years. From BB guns to all the inventory the US Army supplies the combat soldier.

After serving in Viet Nam I came home and continued target shooting and hunting for pleasure. As a young adult I always thought it would be great to hunt deer with modern rifles, but now I know it would be a mistake.

While considering Indiana's terrain, suburbs and rural communities, I would fear for lives if modern rifles were used. I don't know the percentage of hunters who inspect the area behind their shot, but I do know how exciting it gets right before you pull the trigger.

Most deer are found in cover and taken from 0-100 yards. If you need to shoot 200 yds it tells us the hunter is hunting in flatter terrain which is fine in Texas, but not healthy for hoosiers.

Today's legal hunting weapons fill all the requirements for anywhere an honest hunter wants to hunt, even at 200 yds. What more is needed?

I'm sure legalizing High Powered Rifles will have an effect on the deer population. Its the "human" population that concerns my family

Dear Commission Members,

Please let me respectfully express my opposition to the introduction of high power rifles for hunting in Indiana. I am a supporter of hunting and fishing and I allow hunting on the small woods that my wife and I own but for all of us who live in rural areas the introduction of high power rifles with the inherent ability to injure people at great distances would involve unwarranted risk. Even now I am careful to wear an appropriate orange vest in the woods during hunting season and I have had two close calls. The introduction of high power rifles would be a danger to rural people sitting in their back yard. Indiana is too densely populated to have firearms that have a potential of causing injury for miles being used.

Thank you for letting me express my opinion.

Yours Sincerely,

New Proposal

I am writing in reference to changing the laws on guns & ammo to be used in the future.

Our closest neighbor is one mile away & at the present time, we've had rifle bullets hit our garage door & holes in our barn roofs with what is being used today. I can't imagine with increasing power & distance what will happen. I will fear for my grandson to play out in the yard & probably worry about his safety even being in the house. If I understand the power correctly a bullet like this could go thru our home!

Its hard to imagine this law even being considered, safety wise for the public as a whole, because a few want this! I hope you think about what the consequences could be as you consider this bill.

You are free to come & observe our buildings for damage if you like.

Dear NRC Director,

We are writing because of a deep concern over the possibility that high-powered rifles might become legal for deer hunting season in Indiana. We strongly feel that this would be very dangerous for those living in hunting areas because our state is too densely populated.

We live on a small farm in Steuben County. Within one mile of our home we know of six hunters who shoot deer each fall. We do not object to their hunting; they are responsible individuals whom we trust. However, any one of them could be shooting in the direction of our home during hunting season. This situation would be much more dangerous if any one of them were hunting with a high-powered rifle.

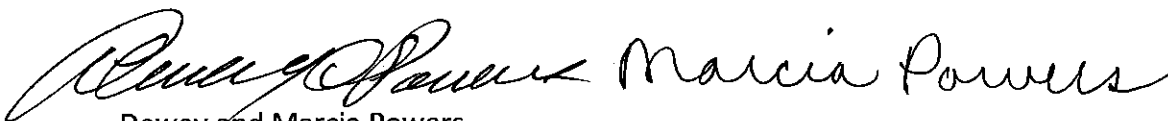

We could also have deer hunters on our land without our permission who would not be concerned about our safety and might also have high-powered rifles. In fact, several years ago Dewey was cutting firewood in our woods when such a person was shooting in his direction. Fortunately, he was not hit, but the situation might have been much different if the person had been shooting with a high-powered rifle.

This danger would be compounded by the many roads that crisscross Steuben County. Our farm is bordered by the Indiana Toll Road, Old Rd. 1 and County Road 40S. Bullets from high powered rifles could travel to anyone driving on any of those roads.

When our grandchildren visit during hunting season we are cautious about venturing near the woods during hunting season. If this change is made, we would not feel safe having them play in our yard or even visit our house.

We are only one family in Indiana. There are many, many adults and children in Indiana who would be subjected to this same danger. Please do not allow this dangerous situation to occur. Why would you take a chance on anyone being shot needlessly in a hunting accident?

Sincerely,

NATURAL RESOURCE COMMISSION

Since hearing about Indiana Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) wishing to implement rifles as a legal weapon to kill whitetail deer in Indiana, I am trying to determine why?

My thoughts are that IDNR does not believe hunters in Indiana can kill enough deer with weapons that are currently legal. I hunt several counties in Northern Indiana and can assure you the hunters have lowered and continue to lower the numbers of deer to the point I hear hunters stating they are not seeing any deer. I have spoken with many farmers and they too are saying they are not seeing deer and had very little crop damage. I also participate in the IDNR archery survey and in my survey the deer sightings have dropped the last few years and continue to drop. I believe the bundle license is the major reason for the decrease in deer numbers and not the type of weapons hunters are permitted to use. Hunters will buy the bundle and try very hard to fill those tags. I know several hunters that are having a difficult time using their antlerless tags because they have not seen the deer. You have also added crossbows that increase the range and efficiency in harvesting deer when the weather is warmer and allow traditional guns hunters an opportunity to get in the field during archery season. IDNR has done what they need to do to control the deer herd for motorist safety, farmers and hunters interest. In IDNR survey several years ago the major reason given by hunters for not harvesting more deer was the price of the tag. The bundle license has addressed that issue.

In the information provided for the proposed amendment change by IDNR they indicate a muzzleloader with smokeless powder will shoot five hundred (500) yards. I have been involved with muzzleloaders for forty (40) years and have never seen a muzzleloader capable of being an effective hunting weapon at five hundred (500) yards regardless of the powder used. Rifles are capable of harvesting deer and hunters at five hundred (500) yards. My problem is one (1) out of five hundred (500) hunters is capable of accurately making a clean kill at five hundred (500) yards, but that will not stop the hunter without the skills to try because they know the weapon is capable, resulting in injured deer.

Safety is a major issue with the use of rifles. I worked for the sheriff's department for thirty two (32) years and in hunting season we would take multiple calls from landowners that find bullet holes in their siding and many coming through the walls while the room was occupied. Finding the irresponsible hunter was an impossible task. Rifles will increase this risk because of the extreme distance they will shoot and still have the kinetic energy to kill and/or penetrate walls. There is a reason why Ohio, Illinois, southern Michigan, Iowa and many other heavy populated states do not permit rifles. In IDNR proposed amendment change, Pennsylvania was listed as a state that allows rifles. That's interesting because Pennsylvania has struggled to have a good stable deer herd with varying age structure in their herd. They even implemented point restrictions in an attempt to have more mature animals and that has failed, is rifles the cause?

In IDNR proposed rule change information they state that the rule change would allow for hunters to use rifles bigger than .243 caliber then they state like 30-30 and 45-70. Are you aware .416, .375, 30-06, 7 MM mag are all rifles that would be legal. Was this designed to make the hunter think a 30-30 and 45-70 would be so bad since they are only a 200 yard weapon and accept this and not comment. Some of these weapons are used to kill elephants and grizzly bears.

Ohio and Illinois both have very limited days, seven (7) that hunters can pursue whitetail deer with a firearm and they use shotguns and pistols and they kill as many deer or more than Indiana which you can hunt (16) days with the same weapons. I hunt Ohio and can promise you they have less deer numbers in the area I hunt, than Indiana, but Indiana deer numbers are still dropping. Ohio and Illinois are getting the job done with less days in the field and using the same weapons we currently use.

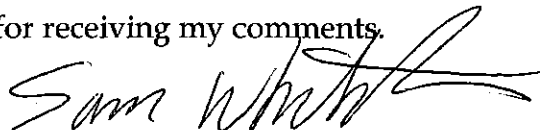

I have seen hunters more excited and more involved in deer hunting since IDNR created the one buck rule. It's not about hunting big bucks. It's about hunters who have stopped hunting and are now seeing nice mature bucks in the fields and deciding to get back into hunting. They may shoot a small antlered buck, that's okay, but it was the mature buck that he may have a chance to harvest that brought him back to the sport. This same thing is bringing our youth into the sport. It's the allure and the excitement knowing that now in Indiana you actually can have an opportunity to harvest a mature deer, not that you will. I believe rifles would place our state back where we were before the one buck rule and safety is definitely a major issue. This also creates a well balanced age structure and a healthier deer herd.

I would much rather see INDR move toward shortening the gun season, which would cause hunters to hunt harder the days they have available and not procrastinate thinking they have sixteen (16) days to harvest an animal. The shorter season also creates more hunters in the woods at the same time which moves the deer and creates more opening day type harvest.

I am not for the proposed amendment to make rifles legal in Indiana.

Thank you for receiving my comments.

Sincerely:

Sam Whitaker

312 IAC 9-1-5.3: Removes the word "traverse" to allow additional types of crossbows to be used.

312 IAC 9-1-12: Makes a technical correction to 312 IAC 9-1-12 to clarify the definition of "possession"

312 IAC 9-2-4: Combines language from 312 IAC 9-2-4 and 312 IAC 9-2-5 governing the restrictions on the placement of traps to clarify requirements

312 IAC 9-3-2: Changes the urban deer zone license to a deer reduction zone license to be consistent with proposed language changes in 312 IAC 9-3-4 and requires check station operators to check-in deer using the DNR's electronic harvest reporting system. Changes to the licensing system are in the process, and retailers will be able to check-in deer and turkey for hunters through a system similar to the current licensing system

312 IAC 9-3-3: Makes the following changes governing deer hunting equipment:

- Allows the 28-gauge shotgun to be used during the firearms seasons and the special antlerless season. Twenty-eight (28) gauge deer slug ammunition is now available and allowing these firearms will provide deer hunters another choice of firearm with which to hunt deer.
- Clarifies that handguns currently legal to use during the firearms season are legal even if originally designed and registered as a rifle. This would clarify that a rifle that can be changed to be used as a handgun can be used during deer firearms season as long as it meets requirements for legal handguns.
- Allows additional rifles to be used by reducing the bullet size required to .243 and eliminating the maximum rifle cartridge case length. This will allow high-powered rifles such as the .30-30 and .45-70 during the deer firearms seasons. Full metal jacketed bullets would be unlawful because since they do not expand when fired, and therefore, do not kill as humanely. The DNR believes this change can be made at this time for the following reasons:

- There are currently no limits on rifles that are legal to use for species other than migratory birds, deer and wild turkey.
- Muzzleloaders have evolved to the point that with smokeless powder (which is legal to use), they are essentially a high-powered rifle (accurate 500-yard gun).
- They are legal in several nearby states, including Kentucky, Michigan (the northern part of the state) and Pennsylvania. not OK, 30, 36, lower mag.

There has been no increase in hunting-related accidents as the result of the use of rifles, neither in Indiana nor in several other states where they are allowed.

I am writing to voice my concern about the use of high powered rifles for the purpose of hunting deer. Hunting is the wrong word. Decimation is more fitting.

Isn't hunting about sport and conservation? Why are we now categorizing it as recreation and an opportunity to use military style weapons to wipe out an already on-the-decline deer population? Why not kill them off quicker. Allow the killers to use hand grenades.

How pathetic our Dept. of Natural Resources has become with allowing fenced hunting on private farms, and now proposing to allow the use of high powered rifles to kill wildlife and a possible child playing in his yard in a supposedly safe area yards away.

Sandra Hatfield

To Whom it may concern:

I am responding to the proposal being looked at by the N.R.C. I'm seventy seven years young and have been shooting and hunting since I was ten yrs old. I've been a avid shooter of all types of firearms all my life. I have a shooting range at my home, reload all of my ammo etc. so I think that I know quite a bit about firearms and their use.

I Think that it would be a bad mistake to open Indiana up to high powered rifles. Indiana opened it up a couple of years ago to be able to use rifles in pistol calibers. I think that this was a great idea. To those with a physical aversion to the heavy kicking shotgun this is the answer. They have better sights are easier to carry, can be shaped easier etc.

There are a few calibers that could be included without creating a dangerous situation. These would be the short range, brush buster, 38-55 45-70 etc.

Someone was comparing us to Michigan & Kentucky. Kentucky is very rolling hilly country and really can't be compared to Ind. Michigan only allows them in Northern Zones that are heavy woods.

Indiana has a very safe record
Lets keep her safe

Respectfully Yours

I vote NO to the High powered rifle proposal.

This will be my last letter & input on ANYTHING ELSE.

I've given up on the DNR.

I voted No to the extension of rabbit season to the END of FEB (Really!!) I belong to ERIE Canal Beagle Club in Warrick County, we also host the World Hunt in Boonville, IN. I do not know ANY member who takes or believes in taking rabbits in FEB, as the rabbits down here are already paired off at the last week of JAN.

I do not know how these decisions ARE being made, but it seems we NEED people with common sense.

The proposal several years ago on making gun season 1wk, that being Thanksgiving week, that would have been perfect! (WHAT Happened?) Things just keep getting worse, bag limits weapons - Length of seasons WHY? I don't understand!!! How ARE our KIDS supposed to get Quality hunting to keep them wanting to come back?

To who it may concern,

My name is Jacob Zachary and I've been hunting in Starke Co. Indiana for about 25 years now. I hunt three different properties throughout the county and at each property I have noticed a big decline in deer numbers over the past 2 or 3 years. It's gotten so bad I don't even feel I can shoot does any more. If I shoot one that's three that won't be here next year. I have not found many dead deer so I don't believe EHD has played a factor where I hunt. I do believe that an 8 doe quota and a late gun season have a lot to do with it. I realize that you all try to maintain a good buck to doe ratio but I believe it is out of hand. A two week gun and muzzleloader season is bad enough. I ask that you take this in consideration in the 2015 regulations. With all due respect.

I am a concerned hunter against the use of high powered rifles for the purpose of taking deer in the state of Indiana.

It is more dangerous regardless of reports that there have not been more hunting accidents in states that allow it.

I am an avid hunter, hunting squirrel, turkey, rabbits, and deer. I have had people shoot too close to me, even while fishing. I have had 22 bullets go by me close enough to hear. I have been sprinkled by buck shot from turkey, squirrel and rabbit hunters.

My concern is that a high powered rifle in the hands of a young hunter even if he has been well taught will take chances. Even an experienced hunter will get excited when a large buck jumps up from the brush. While shooting at a running animal the hunters adrenaline is up and they might take chances they normally wouldn't take. You never know what might be on the other side of the deer, (a house, or another hunter).

Also my concern is with the ones who road hunt. Sometimes they are drinking and shooting from their vehicles. Shooting across an open field is very dangerous. I have been on the other side of the field hunting and had road hunters drive by and shoot. When the deer starts up a hill on the other side of the field hunters have continued to shoot. When sitting in a tree stand and buck shot starts falling around you, that is one of the scariest things that can happen. I was bow hunting once and a road hunter, on the road about a mile away drove by and shot a high powered rifle into the air several times. I could hear the bullets coming, and as they fell around me they broke the limbs off of the trees around me. I got down from my tree stand and went to where my buddy was hunting about 150 yards away. The bullets also fell around him and broke limbs off.

I also believe the doe tags should be cut back, the amount of deer is a lot less than there used to be.

Re: Doe Quotas

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing because I am very concerned with the deer population in the state of Indiana. I have hunted deer in this great state for the approximately the past 25 years. During the past couple of years, I have seen a drastic decline in the number of deer seen while in the outdoors and while hunting.

While I live in the Indianapolis area, I hunt primarily in Switzerland County. We manage approximately 115 acres solely for hunting including whitetail deer and turkeys. We spend countless hours and thousands of dollars in food plot and habitat work every year. Unfortunately, we have not been rewarded. Simply put, the deer are not there like they used to be. We run approximately six-eight trail cameras on the property for about 9 months out of the year. Over the course of this time period, we have consistently seen more antlered deer than antlerless deer. The ratio is probably 3:1 and maybe even higher. We have personally taken steps not to harvest antlerless deer on this property. However, we believe that more needs to be done in order for the long-term success of the Indiana deer herd. The deer quotas in Switzerland county and southeastern Indiana in general need to be drastically reduced.

I understand that you might be thinking that I am just writing to rant about our lack of success while hunting or whatever the case may be. I am not! I am genuinely concerned about the deer population and the long-term future of deer hunting not only for me personally but for my children as well. I understand as well that a number of factors affect the overall deer herd including disease etc. However, if the state of Indiana can do something up front to help protect what Mother Nature has provided us, I think this should be the first step in the preservation of Indiana's deer herd.

I sincerely hope that you take my thoughts into consideration and I would be more than happy to discuss my concerns with anyone that is willing to listen.

Thank you.

My Name is Jerry Benesh, I live in Polaski County, where I own 78 acres of land. I'm writting to say that I'm in favor of the proposed rifle season. I've picked up the GAD-A-Bout paper the last couple of months and have read the Gloom and Doom that Ray Dickerson and Joe Martins have spread.

There are many pistol rounds that are available that are more powerful than a 30-30 or a 45-70. I don't have a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars to spend on such a gun, nor want to spend three dollars around to shoot it. I've often said why not a 30-30 in Indiana. I can buy a Marlin for $400, and ammo at less than one dollar a round. I'm in favor of Passing a rifle season in Indiana.

Natural Resources Commission,

It is disappointing for many hunters to hear that you are proposing the legalization of center-fire rifles for deer hunting in Indiana. You have created one of the best deer hunting states in the country through proper deer management. The one-buck rule has helped Indiana gain national attention as a top producing trophy state. I know that you will entertain a multitude of opinions concerning the proposed legislation on center-fire rifles and everyone's opinion concerning the issue should not only be heard but considered. My personal opinion on the matter includes the following questions to you:

- 1) Is it really safe for hunters to be in the field with other hunters who are using rifles whose bullets can travel several hundred yards up to miles further than their intended target?
- 2) How many people will die or be seriously injured by center-fire rounds?
- 3) How can the implementation of center-fire rifles improve the quality of hunting deer in Indiana when more deer will be wounded due to long-range shots?
- 4) Would you take your son or daughter out hunting during the firearms season if center-fire rifles were included?
- 5) You already provide more than enough hunting opportunity with the liberal firearm and muzzleloader seasons for hunters to have good opportunities, so why do you think we need hunters taking risky shots at deer that are too far away to begin with?
- 6) Will the legalization of center-fire rifles tempt hunters to shoot more bucks from the road?
- 7) Will poaching activity increase especially since you have created the ability for hunters to check-in deer online or over the phone instead of physically checking in their deer?
- 8) Were you surprised that deer harvest numbers decreased 28% during the 2013 season with the new check-in laws?
- 9) Do we really need more ways to kill more deer when we have a diminishing deer herd?
- 10) Do the benefits of this proposed legislation outweigh the negatives that I and others have described?

Sincerely,

Mark Liebner- Owner of Camp Kay Outfitters

P.S. I would like you to know how much I appreciate your help and understanding in this matter. My livelihood exists because of the quality of deer hunting in Indiana therefore I will not be allowing my hunters to use center-fire rifles even if you do legalize them.

Subject: High Powered Rifles For Deer Hunting

I was reading the January 2015 issue of Tri-State Outdoor News and was reading the article about the state of Indiana possibly allowing the use of High Powered Rifles this year to take deer. It is my oppinion that there are enough weapons being used and they are powerful enough to get the job done.

The geography of this state does not work well with the use of high powered rifles. The state now allows the use of shotguns, muzzel-loaders, and pistol caliber rifles. The country side has way too many homes along just about every road in the state. A 200-yard shot, or thereabouts, ia about as long a distance shot as there is.

Even if the state mandates that every hunter that is going to use a high powered rifle have completed a manditory hunter safety course no matter what his age or experience. There are a lot of hunters now that don't even get a license or tag and still go hunting anyway. If the state approves the use of high powered rifles there will be a lot of hunters that will go buy a 30.06, 7mm Mag., or anyother kind of gun and just go out and start banging away. I know of too many hunters that take "SOUND-SHOTS" before they know what the target is or let alone what is beyond it.

I live on just 10 acres and there are a lot of deer in this area. I'm not looking forward to worrying about having some idiot throwing slugs thru my house. If that were to happen I may just decide to shoot back.

I strongly believe that the use of high powered rifles for deer hunting would prove to be a huge mistake.

I'm anxiously awaiting your decision on this matter.

Yours Truely,

Timothy E Rosenbaum

To the DNR office of Indiana:

I'm 71 years old and I was Born in Indiana and I have hunted and fished here many years. I'm very concerned about what I'm hearing about Hi-powered rifles maybe being used here in Ind. next year. I have several large caliber rifles I've used to hunt caribou, antelope, mule deer, Elk, in Canada - Colorado - Wyoming - Montana New Mexico, I always hunted with outfitters, and they all gave their hunters a gun safety Brief and they always said don't shoot over ridges. Out there the people grow up with these guns and know and keep their Responsibility. This is my greatest concern with these guns. Indiana folks grew up with .22's & Shotguns. How are we going to educate our hunters on the long ranges these guns have??? We have School children out waiting for their Bus to come. We have these Buses going down many Back roads where these guns will Be during deer season, my wife could get shot at home hanging up clothes. Many of our 20-30-40 acre woods have homes in them, many you can't see from a distance. We have many Cities - towns - Shopping Malls within range of Hi-power rifles in deer woods. I really don't think this is in our Best Interest at this time, OVER

We are all used to shooting at deer at 100-150-yards with shot guns, now People will shoot 300-400yds, when you pull the trigger, you cannot recall that Bullet, it will go its course, wherever that may be. I truly hope you people at Indiana DNR will make Wise Decision on this Subject.

PS all these Mountain States I mentioned are very mountainous, Rifle Bullets hit those hills nearly always, Indiana has much flat-level terrain, causing many Ricochet bullets.

To Whom it may Concern

I'm a avid deer hunting person. I think it is a good Idea to use High Power rifles to hunt with.

I've been hunting deer since the very first season. My first season hunting with a Bow & arrow in 1965 & have been hunting with shot gun & MZ loader untill they came out with pistols of 357 & larger & Rifles with pistol cartridges 44 mag & will never go back to shotgun. I have been hunting ever since and I am 84 years old & still hunting every day.

since June this year, I have express to the DNR farm permits to thin the deer from area Bean fields off my neighbor & grandson. I use a 270 & make a short Kill. Back in the '60's & '70's there was no way you could use a H.P. rifle because there were to many hunters in the woods. Now days the younger Generation doesn't hunt much. my opinion is there are to many bucks & not enough does. 1 Buck is not enough. This Bow season I seen 7 diferent Bucks & no does. This gun season I've not seen a single deer. my county is Monroe - Mostly hunted Brown untill a few yrs ago & only Monroe

TO ANY ONE WHO IS CONCERNED ABOUT THE HIGH POWERED GUN REGULATIONS -----

I don't know why I get the feeling this will be trashed right now – maybe because I feel there isn't anyone in our Natural Resources Department that CARES about this STUPID!! regulation.

Do you get the idea that I am totally against allowing high powered guns for deer hunting? They are not necessary if the person doing the hunting is a "true hunter". If you are, you know to sit and be patient if you see a deer that far away. Use some scent or use your grunt call to get them closer. OR just sit and be quiet and you might get lucky.

However, my concern is SAFETY -- LET ME REPEAT: SAFETY!! Our home is surrounded by woods on three sides. My dog and I enjoy going for walks and in the winter months when we go I wear an orange hat and an orange vest and I make noise.....probably scaring deer in the process. Usually we know where the people that ask for permission to hunt are located. So the dog and I stay away from that area. BUT in the last few years it is getting to be more and more common for UNINVITED hunters to just make themselves at home. If the high powered guns are allowed I'll have to live in the basement for fear some numb skull that just invited himself will shoot and hit the house!! Or perhaps another hunter that is sitting where the numb skull didn't see him.....or worse yet, thought it was a deer and shot! And what about the natural resources personal out doing their jobs? THERE IS ABSOLUTELY NO REASON TO ALLOW HIGH POWERED GUNS FOR HUNTING!!!

It is my Prayer to the Good Lord that the agency in charge of this will come to their senses and cancel this stupid law. It will also be interesting to see if you people pay any attention to the wishes of the public. Everyone I have talked with is AGAINST this proposal.....and that includes "true hunters". PLEASE USE YOUR COMMON SENSE AND CANCEL THIS REGULATION!!

To whom it may concern? It does concern me for safety reasons & the conservation of the natural resource, the white tailed deer.

I'm writing this letter in opposition to the proposed rule change to allow Indiana hunters to use high-powered rifles for deer hunting starting in 2015.

I'm a seventy-four year old veteran of Indiana hunting regulations and I see little or no good reason to allow such a rule change. I remember growing up in the late 40's or 50's when you didn't see or hear of deer in Southern Indiana.

Deer hunters across the state with all the allowed permits may kill far more than they need or use which in my mind is needless waste. I have witnessed deer kill left with only a so-called trophy being taken which is a waste of this beautiful resource.

The State of Indiana now allows cross-bow, long bows (so called) pistols, shotguns, muzzle loaders, night-vision cameras and lets not forget all that are killed on the highways. This is another subject of interest, The Auto Insurance lobby.

May I ask, What's next if we allow high powered rifles, it may will be Apache Helicopters so we can exterminate all of Indiana's deer population. At seventy-four years of age I might just see the white tailed deer put on the "endangered specie list" and what a shame that would be.

Natural Resources Comm:

I'm writing in response to your proposal on High Powered Rifle hunting in Indiana.

I'm 72 years old and a resident of Ind. for all those years. I hunt in Georgia with Rifles and have used everything from .223 to a 30-06. This was done on rough Terrain and forest by someone that knows and respects their range and power. I'm "against" allowing high powered rifles in Indiana other than what we now allow. There is several calibers allowed now that I don't agree with but will accept. "There is a lot of calibers and loads that have no re-coil effect for all hunters, small and petit allowed in Ind." For those that want a larger caliber, we have the .358 Hoosier round or they can load 150 gr. powder in a muzzle loader or shoot 3 inch slugs at 200 yds!

If large calibers are allowed, the idiot hunters, which we all know, will be using 300 mag. and scaring the hell out of everyone all over the State. A lot of hunters I know hunt with what is allowed now but have never shot a .243 or 30-06, and do not know what they are or can do. This will play into the no-hunting, no guns crowd with a large, here's your sign on all of our foreheads!!

I believe it will also be a great danger to other hunters all over the state as it is and has been in Mich., and PA.

If this law becomes in effect, I'll hunt with a 7m-08 but I'll be wearing full Armour bullet proof coveralls and at 73 yrs. old walking pretty dam slow!

P.S.

You have my permission to use this letter in any upcoming debate on the new calibers!

12-18-14.

To Whom it concerns,

I Strongly oppose the proposed Section 5 312 IAC 9-3-3 than would change current rifle regulations to include .243 cal. and larger to be legal for deer hunting.

My reasons are,

1. Safety, due to the long range of these calibers in our populated state.
2. Deer numbers are at very low numbers due to recent years liberal antlerless quotas.
3. The Average Firearm shot to harvest a deer is less than 40 yds in Indiana. Current legal calibers are more than adequate.

Subject: Rule change proposal 312 IAC 9-3-3 subsection (D) (4)

I oppose the use of high powered rifles for hunting deer here in Indiana. Houses, roads & people are too close here in Indiana to use guns that shot into the air will go more than 5 miles.

The minimum proposed is .243, 1.16 in. minimum case length & no full metal jacketed bullet. All minimums - no maximums which allows the use of guns big enough to take down an elephant - totally unnecessary. Also the magazine capacity is not addressed, military type guns can shoot 30 as fast as you can pull the trigger instead of the 5 shotguns hold - totally unsafe not to mention bad press for hunters.

The modern muzzleloaders & shotguns reach out there making high powered rifles unnecessary here in Indiana.

If high powered rifles is allowed the minimum hunter orange needs to be a vest, a hat will not be noticeable at the 1000 yard plus ranges people are taking game these days with high powered rifles.

My opinion this rule change is stupid, not needed. If it came from DNR personnel, they need to be fired. If from the public, ban them from your meetings. This last paragraph included only to show how much I oppose the high powered rifle use in Indiana.

Please be responsible in this matter!!

SUBJECT- DEER HUNTING PROPOSED RIFLE HUNTING

FROM

WILLIAM D. BOWMAN

CARMEL IN 46032

wmdbowman@comcast.net

My first deer hunt was in 1966 when Indiana had one buck only deer season. There after returning from Viet Nam in 1970 my love of deer hunting continued until 2001. I have had success with every legal weapon except the crossbow.

Please except my thoughts in regards to the new proposed rifle deer hunting regulation.

All Western States and most Midwest States including Kentucky, Tennessee, part of Michigan and many Eastern States allow center fire rifles for deer hunting. There urban zones are protected as well as certain Counties. Bow and Arrow, Crossbow and certain fire arms could be very suitable for Urban Zone deer hunting. Follow up on a wounded deer can be a very tricky proposition, especially during the late evening twilight hours.

Semi-automatic military weapons of certain makes and models should be excluded. I would rather see Sportsmen and Sportswomen during the deer season rather than Rambo with his AK-47.

Indiana has large open Farming communities and extensive heavy wooded Forests with semi mountainous terrain all very suitable for any Deer Hunter practicing safe gun handling and shooting technics with a rifle. A sporting Rifle of their choice larger calibers included. Indiana Varmint hunters are legally using the rifles of their choice. Hunter Safety Programs are available in Indiana and are being utilized.

Damaged to the Deer population in Indiana are Disease, over browsing, automobiles and some poaching.

If the professionals continue to properly manage our Deer Herd and allow this rifle regulation to pass and include into the 2015 deer season. I will be back into the wonderful Sport of Deer Hunting with my new rifle

Greetings,

As an avid hunter and outdoorsman

I strongly oppose Proposal #312 IAC 9-3-3.

The use of high powered rifles in Indiana for deer hunting is absolutely ridiculous! It was mentioned that they are legal for varmit hunting, but that is a completely different story. In deer firearm season there are thousands + thousands of hunters in the woods, which is never the case when it comes to varmit hunting.

It was also mentioned they are legal in Michigan, but that's only true for the northern half, which is not nearly as populated. Nothing was said that they are NOT legal in Ohio or Illinois.

Not only will it be dangerous when hunting with such high powered rifles in this flat, overly populated part of northern Indiana, but where will all the rounds end up when people are sighting these rifles without a proper stopping target, or people who don't realize how far these bullets actually travel.

Deer populations are on a decline already with the weapons that are legal now. The last thing Indiana needs is thousands upon thousands of hunters slinging lead in this flat country with overpowering rifles with houses in every direction and roads not far apart.

Please reconsider, as this would be a disaster that could result in deaths not only to hunters, but to citizens far away from the intended target.

I am against the proposed DNR rule allowing deer hunters to use high powered hunting rifles during deer hunting season. The terrain in Indiana and the power of the cartridges used in high powered rifles increases the chance of stray or ricocheted bullets entering nearby homes or out buildings, possibly wounding or killing innocent people or animals that happen to be in harm's way due to the increased distance the bullet will travel.

Allowing High Powered Rifles To Hunt Deer

1 message

Gary Magoni <garymagoni@gmail.com>

To: nrcrules@nrc.in.gov

Thu, Dec 18, 2014 at 12:12 PM

I just got done reading a front page article in the Indianapolis Star titled "Rifle Rift Fires Up Hunters".

In short, I totally disagree with using high powered rifles to hunt deer in Indiana or any other state that has flat terrain. The article mentioned that modern shotguns, muzzle loaders or pistol cartridges, currently permitted to hunt deer, can shoot just as far as high powered cartridges such as the .243 .308 or 30.06.

I have been shooting guns and hunting all my life. The affective range of even the newest shotguns and muzzle loaders are at best 200 to 250 yards. The shotguns and muzzle loaders also drop very quickly and have nowhere near the carrying distances of high powered rifles. The very real danger from high powered rounds, like the .243, .308 or 30.06, is that they will carry for several miles over flat terrain. A shot gun, muzzle loader or pistol round has nowhere near the same carrying distance, and that is where a high powered rifles are of real danger on flat land.

Another argument for high powered rifles is that shotguns have too heavy of a recoil. I agree that a 12 ga deer round has a heavy recoil, but anyone that has ever shot a 30.06, .308 or any of the bigger high powered rounds will tell you that they also have heavy recoils. Anyone shy of a 12 ga recoil can use a rifle chambered for the .44 mag or 357 mag. They have much less recoil and gun weight for the laddies or kids to handle.

When I retired I bought myself 155 acres in Green County because I felt many of the public hunting areas in Indiana were too crowded and unsafe. High powered rifles would greatly enhance the chance of hunters getting shot by a stray bullet.

THE BOTTOM LINE IS SAFETY AND HIGH POWERED RIFLES ARE MUCH MORE UNSAFE ON FLAT TERRAIN WHERE THERE ARE MANY RURAL FAMILIES AND FARMS!!!!

I am writing in opposition to the new proposed law allowing High Powered Rifles in the 2015 Deer Season. I have recently read some proponents of the new law claiming that since Muzzle Loaders can already shoot deer at 500 yards why not allow Rifles to be used? The person that claimed that Muzzle Loaders are good out to 500 yards is an idiot and every level headed deer hunter knows it. Muzzle Loaders are not accurate out to anywhere near 500 yards.

The state of Indiana is way too populated to allow High Powered Rifles for deer hunters. Human beings, livestock, houses, farm buildings, etc. would all be in jeopardy. With the range that a High Powered Rifle has; what's left of the deer herd would not have a chance. The combination of EHD and WAY WAY too many doe permits have reduced our deer herd to a sad new low. I have been, and continue to be, totally convinced that the need to raise revenue (increased sale of more and more deer licenses) along with pressure from the car insurance companies and whining farmers who want every deer killed are the reasons for the ridiculously high number of doe permits issued. As I have claimed for years, wild life always loses out to the almighty dollar.

One thing that irritates me is that the farmer always blames the deer for the destruction of their corn crop. I have never heard them acknowledge that it is the raccoons that are knocking down their corn stalks not the deer. Coons always seem to get a pass from the farmers. Granted, deer will nibble on the corn ear as it hangs on the stalk, but they are not responsible for knocking the stalk over; the coons are.

I live in Steuben County and have been hunting deer for approximately 33 years. I have never seen as few deer as I have in the past two seasons. Years ago it was common to see 7-9 deer in a line sneaking through the woods. Now days a hunter is lucky to see 3. I know it would not set well with the farmers, but Indiana needs to cut WAY back on the Depredation Permits they issue. Also, at least in Steuben County the state needs to completely do away with doe permits for a year. If that cannot be done, at least limit it to one doe per hunter.

Bottom line – No High Powered Rifles in Indiana!!!

Thank you for your time.

Dear Sirs:

This letter is written to express my concern about several natural resource situations. I've lived all my life in Noble and LaGrange counties where I hunt and fish. I'm soon to be 76 years of age and have seen several changes. As of date I'm totally against high-powered rifles that would lower even more the deer base in north-east Indiana. My sons ~~and~~ and I are seeing ~~less~~ ^{fewer} and ~~less~~ ^{fewer} deer every year. I believe we need to lower the bonus deer to one. We have folks in LaGrange county that may have 3-4-5 hunting. If that many family members each shoot four bonus deer, that could be 20 deer taken just in bonus. We are very selective in what we harvest, if we get any chances.

In the area of fishing, I would suggest we limit bluegills to 25 per day. Some folks get on pontoons 6-8-10 and keep everything they catch. Some lakes are being over fished and appear to have very little breeding stock left to reproduce.

Thank you for reading my comments.

Dear Hearing officer:

I am writing specifically to comment on the rule governing high-powered rifles during the hunting season. As someone who lives close to state land, I have a safety concern. My house has been hit twice by rifle fire since I have lived at my current address. I am sure that in one instance the hunter was unaware that he was not on state land as the boundaries are unmarked.

I urge you to ban high-powered rifles for hunting and regulate other firearms so citizens are not endangered. The range of some of these weapons is inappropriate for use in your scattered land parcels.

SUBJECT : Rule 312IAC9-3-3

To who it concerns. I would like to voice my concerns about the rule change allowing high powered rifles during deer season. In my opinion and everyone I've talked to no one is in favor of this change! Mainly safety concerns, deer heard numbers going down, and are season is to long already. Thanks Mike Mullins

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

My name is Norman Wampler Jr. and I have been an avid Indiana Outdoorsman pretty much as long as I can remember. I started following my dad around when I was probably five or six years old. I started hunting squirrels and rabbits and then started deer hunting when I was thirteen years old and have been hooked every since. I am currently forty eight years old, so I have been deer hunting for thirty-five years. I can remember when it was a big deal to just see a deer track, let alone an actual deer. In the eighties and nineties it seemed deer were everywhere. I spend countless hours in the woods every year and keep a log each day I am in the woods. I primarily hunt Greene, Owen, Martin, and Daviess counties. I drive every day from Northwest of Worthington to Crane Naval Base to work. According to my records and my travels across Indiana it is my determination that the deer herd is down by at least fifty percent. I love to deer hunt and spend time in God's creation, but I want to see deer while I'm at it. I understand the need for a manageable sized herd, but I do not understand the proposed rule changes you want to implement. I do not agree with the possible changes to allow high powered rifles. I currently hunt with an inline muzzleloader and I cannot shoot 500 yards. Even if I could, I can't shoot repeatedly. I believe you are asking for trouble and the chances of someone getting killed, a house or building shot through, etc. are great. Most of the deer hunting done in Indiana is around towns, homes, farms, and populated areas, this is not the West were it is wide and open.

I also disagree with the proposed change to extend the firearm season in the (formerly urban zones) from November 11 through January 31. To me, this will probably be a deer slaughter. Why do you think this is necessary? I just don't understand. Is it pressure from insurance companies? I rarely see a deer while traveling Indiana roads now, let alone one hit by a vehicle. I just would like for someone to explain to me why these changes are necessary. It seems like to me the deer herd is on the decline already. Is your intent to wipe them out?

In closing, I would really like a response to this letter. I love to deer hunt and am concerned about the future of deer hunting in Indiana.

Very respectfully,

Norman G. Wampler, Jr. (812) 798-1155

We would like to offer our opinion on the proposed amendments to rules governing deer hunting. We do not support this proposed change. We have owned a 181 acre farm in Wabash County, Indiana for the past 37 years. Our farm only has 60 tillable acres and the balance is forest land and three small ponds. We have our property enrolled in the Classified Wildlife Program. We truly enjoy having our family and friends hunt deer on our property. We believe allowing the use of high-powered rifles for deer hunting is a SERIOUS MISTAKE. We have several neighbors close by and due to the close proximity of nearby residences we believe the range of high-powered rifles makes it extremely dangerous.

I am 71 years old and have hunted deer on my property during gun season for the past 37 years. I am strongly convinced that high-powered rifles would be extremely dangerous in our area. My convictions are so strong on this matter that I will no longer hunt deer if this proposed rule allowing high-powered rifles is enacted. I hate to stop something I truly enjoy but I must think of safety first. Who was the idiot that thought we need high-powered rifles to kill a deer in Indiana??? What about the safety of your enforcement personnel who are on duty during hunting season?????

Division of Hearings,

A lot of talk has been about the proposed rifle season lately, and rightfully so. I think it is one of the worst decisions that could happen for the state's deer herd if passed. However, I have voiced my concerns. I used the submittal process for that.

What I am writing about today is a proposed rule that I feel needs to happen. I spend a lot of time in the woods every year. Turkey hunting, deer hunting, scouting for upcoming seasons and shed hunting. It is becoming all too common to see, and encounter, a bobcat. I feel they are at the point and population that they could effectively be hunted without being detrimental to their population. In fact something alarming has been happening. My sister and brother-in-law who reside in Posey County have had a bobcat show up multiple times a week just to sit on the edge of their property and watch. It shows no fear to the barking dog. They also have a newborn baby who will eventually be outside with the cat watching. Very scary thought. There are also other instances where house cats and small dogs are showing up dead and reported missing. It is time to allow bobcat to be hunted. My friend's property holds over five bobcats (as seen and ID'd on cameras). Let us, as sportsmen, be proactive and not reactive.

Thanks for your time to read this.

I heard you are considering allowing high powered rifles for deer hunting in Indiana. I am 67 years old, a life long resident of Indiana, and I have hunted all of my life.

I cannot imagine anyone thinking that allowing rifle shooting as a means of hunting deer to be anything but a bad idea. Here are some of my thoughts:

1. The state is too densely populated' for this,
2. the range of the bullets would be too great and therefore put too many people at risk including non-hunters such as residents especially in rural areas
3. the velocity of these bullets is too great and would risk crippling the game and leaving injured and defenseless animals to suffer needlessly until they would die from the wounds or be killed by predators
4. even if the shot were lethal, because of the velocity of these bullets, these animals could travel great distances before finally collapsing which make recovering the game very difficult if not impossible in some cases
5. I am afraid this would encourage novices to hunt with very dangerous weapons and little if any experience putting too many at risk.....these novices could think it is an easier hunt with this weapon and therefore hunt without the seasoned experience to do so
6. the State of Indiana has, from the beginning of modern deer hunting, not allowed rifle hunting for all of the reasons listed and more. The state was far less populated then. It was a good idea then and an even better idea now.

If there are too many deer in Indiana (I believe there are far too many) then the heard needs to be reduced. This can be accomplished by allowing hunters to kill more deer, longer season especially doe season. The heard cannot be effectively reduced by harvesting more bucks. It can only be reduced by harvesting more does.

DEER STA

I want you to know that you need to stop thinking about doing stupid stuff

I am talking about using

HIGH POWER RIFLES doing

DEER SEASONS THE BULLET

WILL CARRY A LONG WAY AND

when the BULLET will hit

A PERSON IT WILL KILL OR

WILL LET A PERSON BARELY

HURT SO LEAVE THE HIGH POWER

RIFLES TO COYOTE HUNTING

BECAUSE THEY ARE A BATTLE COLLECTOR

AND THERE ARE SOME HUNTERS THAT NEVER

LOOK WHAT'S BEHIND THE GAME THEY ARE

SHOOTING AT AND ALL SO HAVE LONGER

DEER SEASONS FOR GUN'S LOOK HOW LONG

DEER SEASONS IS FOR BOW'S FROM

OCT, TO JANUARY LOOK NOW SHORT DEER SEASONS
